Set of 3 bronze

'wise monkeys'. The 'wise monkeys' (also known as 'the three little monkeys') are a symbol of Asian origin consisting of three monkeys, each of which covers a different part of its face with its hands: the first covers its eyes, the second its mouth and the third its ears. They form a kind of pictorial maxim: 'See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil'. Those who follow this maxim will experience nothing but good.
